

WHO WE ARE

The AACE Life Sciences Forum is a thought-leadership community dedicated to AACE members active in the life sciences sector, including pharmaceuticals and biotechnology. It serves as a collaborative space for cost engineering and project controls professionals to exchange knowledge, share lessons learned, and explore practical solutions to common industry challenges.

WHAT WE OFFER

The AACE Life Sciences Forum meets quarterly, with three virtual meetings held throughout the year and one in-person session at the AACE Conference & Expo. Each meeting features a focused discussion or panel led by professionals representing life sciences organizations, exploring current issues, challenges, and best practices across the pharmaceutical, biotechnology, and related industries.

The in-person session at the AACE Conference & Expo fosters connections, knowledge exchange, and collaboration among members working in the life sciences industry - creating a true community within a community experience.
